

wild salt architecture inc.

Staff Progress Report

Project New Administration Building for the Municipality of Argyle
Date 12th July 2019

Hello team,

We now have enough information on drawings to begin the Class B estimate, we will send these to you early next week for information. We've been focusing on this so we have not yet progressed the 3D images, those are next and we will work on those while the cost estimate is underway. We are going to use the 3D model to show you how the building works with regard to the high level windows and sloped ceilings, and some eye level views of the key interior spaces. This should give you a greater understanding than the 2D section views you have seen so far. In general we are happy with how the building design is going inside and out, things are working out well without needing any complex structure, the interior works well and the building is more efficient in terms of energy, material and certainly cost. We should have the cost estimate in a few weeks time and we will be looking for it to be lower than our construction budget to put us in a safe position to go out for tender.

Have a good weekend!